

Gas Networks Ireland

Achieving the Investing in Volunteers standard is a testament to our employees' dedication to volunteering, and demonstrates Gas Networks Ireland's commitment to valuing our volunteers, supporting inclusion, and ensuring that giving back to communities is integral to our business model.

✓ The benefits of IiV for our organisation

It has brought focus to our CSR activities from senior levels in the business. Having a certified standard helps senior decision makers to take the volunteer programme seriously as a business benefit and not just a "nice to have".

It has brought significantly more structure and rigor to our volunteer supports and promotion of the programme. We had never really looked at this before IiV, and made significant improvements over the past year.

It demonstrates to our charity partners that we are striving to be best in class and are actively building on our volunteer initiatives to better support them.

It demonstrates externally to communities, customers, stakeholders, and potential workforce that when we say we want to do good in the communities where we operate, that we really mean it.
